Hon , C. T. Butler, late Senator from Jefferson county, State Lecturer of the Grange who was on his way to Tyler county to deliver a speech to the Grangers of that region to-day. The ex-Senator is still for "more money," but we thought we discovered a slight abatement in his former soft money ideas. He goes in now rather for the unlimited coinage of silver. We ventured to remind him that the Grangers had vast crops to sell to Europe this year, and that as things look the United States will be a creditor nation. It is estimated that England must buy say 250 million dollars worth of food from us this year, and France 125 millions, and that other European countries will swell this enormous aggregate many millions more. As matters now stand, this food must be paid for in gold-the money of the world. If the free coinage of silver is established any balance in favor of this country will paidin silver rated at 15 per cent above its market value. Even under the Warner ailver bill as finally smended by the House, giving the profits on the free coinsilver to the Government, silver would be sent here from Europe to pay any balance of trade in favor of this country, because this county would be the only one in which the cheapest metal could be at once turned into lawful money. At present silver cannot be coined by the solder at will in any civilized country The result would be that instead of being paid in gold, good the world over, the United States would take its pay for feeding the world in silver, a cheap metal, good only in Asia, which the increased production of American mines may again drive down in value, as it already has once.

The School Book Question.

The question of selecting a series of school books for use in the public schools of this city will come before the Board of Education at its meeting this evening. The matter has now been under considers tion for some time, and has been referred to several committees to report on the comparative prices of the several series offered by their publishers, and the advisability of making any change. From these reports it is evident that a considerable eaving can be made to the people in the price of school books, particularly in Readers, Arithmetics and Geographies, There has been for some years a growing feeling that our school books were costing too much, and to remedy this the las Legislature passed, "An act to regulate the prices of class books used in the Free Schools of the State." By an express provision this law is made to include inde nendent School Districts, and Wheeling i therefore entitled to its benefits.

In this connection it may be well to restate some of the provisions of this law. It provides that the books prescribed in Sec. 58 of the School Law (including those used in the independent school districts and the Normal School and its branches) shall be furnished to the pupils or patrons of the school at a special retail price, not to exceed the wholesale price of said books; and that for the purpose of supply and distribution the publishers of said book aball furnish for cash or its equivalent to any merchant, dealer, or agent their publications at a discount of 162 per cent from the special retal price as established by contract. It further provides that the publishers shall print on the outside of the back of each book the retail price thereof, and that no more shall be charged for the books furnished to the schools of West Virginia than for the same book in any other State or city. Besides these there are other provisions requiring specific contracts to be made with pub-lishers, bonds filed, &c. We refer to these requirements of the law to show how fully under its provisions the people are protected from over-charges upon the part of either publishers or dealers; and our of Education will, of course, as a first consideration, require the publishers of any text book proposed to be introduced in our schools to fully comply with the provisions of the law. If this is not done we may find, after going to the exsome of the books in use, that we are simply out of the frying-pan into the fire;" that we have merely changed our books but not the prices, and that our last estate is no better than the first. It has been estimated that by due watchfulness and care on the part of school boards a saving of $30,000 may be made to the patrons of our State schools under the salutary provisions of this law. We urge upon the Board, in the interest of the people, that special 27 Tickets, $2. Half Tickets, $1. care should be exercised in this matter. and that every proposition of the publishers should be carefully scrutinized The proposals made by the several publishers, who all seem anxious enough to furnish us mental pabulum in the form of school books, should be plain and definite They should specifly the special retail price at which each book is to be furnish ed, not to the Board, or to the dealer, or to a "third party" even, but to the buyer—the pupil, or the parton of the school. As we understand it, the Board does not wish to engage in business operations, such as the purchase and sale of school books, and as they have reached that time in life when they are not presumed to need school books themselves, we deem it superfluous for publishers to pronose to furnish their books directly to the Board, or to mystify prices by any such indirect methods. The simple question which most concerns the people is, what are the proposed retail prices of each book

This should be definitely proposed by the publishers, carefully considered by the Board and established by contract before any change is made in our school books or expense incurred by the people. Lady Ecoutiflers.

Ladies, you cannot wake fair skin, rosy checks and sparking eyes with all the com-metics of France, or beautifiers of the world, while in poor health, and nothing will give you such good health, strength and beauty as Hop Bitters.
